PROFILE

Ian is a high-performance team trainer and executive coach with 2bLimitless.

He has a background in Educational Senior Leadership, Learning and Development, Curriculum Design, and Facilitation Training. Ian works with individual performers, leaders, and teams who are passionate about growth, development, and finding new levels of engagement and impact.

Ian is an accomplished team coach and facilitator. Although he brings deep insights around the science of high performance through his own credentialing and experience in senior leadership, Ian's gift is in the art of world-class delivery. Ian has an enviable ability to craft inspiring workshops and team sessions that captivate, engage and deliver real impact.

Ian compliments his high-performance team training, with executive coaching at the individual level. He has been deeply engaged in learning and development all of his life and has honed a talent for connecting with people instantly and helping them really unlock the very best of themselves not only for their own ability to thrive but for their opportunity to create the most value in the world.

Ian leads with empathy, a customized approach to supporting people, and an engaging charismatic style that enables him to connect with people from all backgrounds and experiences. Ian challenges people to take themselves to new levels. Working with him is impactful, fun, and transformative.
